1. Please review the use of the term "additional" in claims 1 and 16.

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

3. Claims 1-14 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 30 and 35-44 of U.S. Patent No. 7,125,512 (Crump et al.) in view of Jamalabad et al. (6,823,230). Crump et al. claim the basic claimed method for making a prototype plastic injection molded part except the aspect of depositing "roads" of a molten thermoplastic resin in layers. However, in discussing prior art at column 1, line 64 to column 2, line 15, Jamalabad et al. note that in using fused deposition modeling, an extruded bead or "road" is deposited layer by layer in areas as defined by a computer assisted design model. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art practicing the claimed process of Crump et al. to deposit "roads" of thermoplastic material since Jamalabad et al. note that fused deposition modeling (claim 37 of Crump et al.) typically involves deposition of thermoplastic material in the form of "roads".

Crump et al. claim thermoplastic materials set forth in claims 2 and 3 in claim 30.

The steps of claims 4-14 are well known in forming and assembling an injection mold and such would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art practicing the claimed process of Crump et al. in order to prepare the injection mold to function in a conventional manner.

4.Claim 15 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form (assuming clarification of the term "additional") including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5.Claims 16-19 are allowed (assuming clarification of the term "additional").

6.Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Allan Kuhns whose telephone number is (571) 272-1202. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Thursday from 7:00 to 5:30.
